

Editorial: GOOD ENOUGH!

"Allen W. Dulles is a veteran of international intelligence work, probably the most expert director of espionage and counter-espionage in the United States. He directed a spy network in Germany and Italy during World War II that reached into Nazi inner circles and brought about collapse of German forces in northern Italy and parts of Germany, before the whole Hitler incubus blew up.

"When he brands 'false' Senator McCarthy's charge of Communist penetration in the Central Intelligence Agency, which Mr. Dulles heads, that should be enough to smash the allegation permanently...."
